

Social and Personal

Some very interesting events of the late summer season have been musicals and recitals given by pupils of the musical schools here. The musicals have been given in the studios which have been arranged with bright flowers for the occasion, and some very interested audiences have been assembled at most of them.

Baltimore Wedding.
An important wedding took place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Redeemer, in Baltimore, when Miss Ellen Bruce Rutherford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hawley Rutherford, became the bride of Mr. John George Sadler, rector of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church and a son of Mrs. Benjamin Sadler, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Gardner Murray, bishop of Maryland, assisted by Rev. Charles A. Hensel, rector of the church, and was followed by a small reception for the two families and a few intimate friends.

The bride entered the church with her brother, A. H. Rutherford, Jr., who, to the illness of her father, she wore a gown of white satin trimmed in old family lace that had been worn by her grandmother at her wedding, and her tulle veil was also bordered with old lace and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a presentation bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bride's two sisters, Misses Anne Clarke and Rosalie Seddon Rutherford, were her only attendants. They wore gowns of pale pink mullie trimmed in shadow lace and pink tulle bouquets of pink sweet peas.

Edwin Beale Sadler, of New York, was his brother's best man, and the ushers included: Alexander H. Rutherford, Jr., the bride's brother; Lemuel T. Appold and William B. Hill, of Baltimore; her cousin, A. Rutherford Davenport, of Richmond; and Samuel S. Sadler, of Philadelphia, a nephew of the bridegroom. After a Northern wedding journey Rev. and Mrs. Sadler will live in the rectory on Roland Avenue.

Prominent Wedding.
Society in Richmond is much interested in the marriage of Miss Phoebe Hunter, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hunter, and Hamilton H. Gilkison, Jr., of Phoenixville, Pa., which took place yesterday evening at 7 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents at Mount Clare, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter live in the old Whitaker mansion, built by the bride's grandfather a hundred years ago, and from which her mother and her

D., who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents, and only the immediate families and a few intimate friends were present. The bride's bridesmaids were present. The bride's bridesmaids were present. The bride's bridesmaids were present.

The bride entered the drawing room with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was gowned in white crepe meteor made with an overdress of pearls. The long train of her gown was embroidered in pearls, and she wore her mother's wedding veil and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Gertrude Oberholzer was the bridesmaid, and she wore a lovely gown of white and lavender, and the chiffon overdress was fastened with flowers. T. Waiter McKay acted as his brother's best man.

The bridesmaids wore frocks of pink chiffon and satin modeled after that of the maid of honor and they all carried bouquets of lavender and pink sweet peas. They were Miss Lora Trump, of Richmond, and Miss Anne Gilkison, of Phoenixville, sister of the groom. The ushers included Philip Hicks, of Avondale, Pa., and Charles Cox, of Phoenixville.

A large reception followed the ceremony, 400 guests being present. Mr. and Mrs. Gilkison left at once for a wedding journey and will make their home in Phoenixville on their return. The bride is a very lovely young girl and has been much admired in Richmond during her several visits to Miss Crump at the Chesterfield. She is a graduate of Hollins College and has a wide circle of friends in Virginia.

SERGEANT MARTIN DIES OF WOUND

Harney Looney, Who Shot Officer, Is Charged With Murder.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Roanoke, Va., June 27.—O. Miller, town sergeant of Newcastle, Craig county, who was shot in his yard on Sunday night, June 16, by Harvey D. Looney, died this morning at the Jefferson Hospital in this city, after making a desperate fight for life.

The shooting took place in Newcastle, where Looney was arrested in the castle and later Looney was arrested in Allegheny county. He was wounded when arrested, and it was thought that he had attempted to take his life. He is now in the hospital at Clifton Forge, and will be removed to the State Prison.

Sergeant Martin was brought to Roanoke on Tuesday morning following the shooting, and for many days he lingered, but all hope for saving his life had been abandoned by his surgeons.

Bartenstein-Gray.
Warrenton, Ore., June 27.—Miss Elizabeth Cole Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Engle Bartenstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bartenstein, were married at the home of the bride, near Warrenton, at 10 o'clock last evening, by Rev. William Chisholm, of the Presbyterian Church. Owing to a recent bereavement in the family of Mr. Bartenstein, the ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate families of the contracting parties.

Mr. Gray, who was becomingly gowned in a dress of white chiffon trimmed with pearls, wearing a tulle veil caught with a spray of lilies of the valley, carried a bride's bouquet of lilies of the valley and a shower bouquet of orange blossoms.

Only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom were in attendance. The ceremony was presided at the organ.

The house was decorated with the bride's room, which was recently completed. Mr. Bartenstein is a member of the local club, and a member of the State rifle team and secretary of the Mt. Carmel Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

Lewis-Patterson.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Chatham, Va., June 27.—The beautiful home of Mrs. T. J. Patterson, in South Chatham, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The bride, Miss Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, was married to Mr. Patterson, of Chatham, by Rev. R. L. Sanford, of the Chatham Baptist Church, and pastor of the local church. The ceremony, which was witnessed only by the immediate families and a few intimate friends, was a beautiful going-away gown of tan cloth with hat and gloves to match. The groom wore a tuxedo and a boutonniere of his native flora, but several seasons has been active on the local market during the winter months. Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom left for their future home at Mullins. The out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker, of Norfolk; Marvin Lewis, brother of the groom, of Mullins, and Sydney Clark, of Wilson, N. C.

Williams-Gentry.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Crozet, Va., June 27.—Midway, the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Gentry, of Crozet, was the scene of a quiet, but beautiful, marriage yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Mattie, was married to Samuel Howe Williams, of Richlands, Tazewell county, Rev. J. M. Luck, pastor of Crozet Baptist Church, officiating. The bride wore a gown of white and pink, with hat and gloves to match. Her sister, Miss Carrie Gentry, was maid of honor, and wore a white lingerie dress. Rev. F. M. Buckman, of Richlands, was best man. The parlor was beautifully festooned with white and pink running cedar and daisy chains and banded with ferns and ivy.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for Richlands, where Mr. Williams is engaged in the business. On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Gentry gave an informal reception to their friends and house guests.

ON TERMS OF INTIMACY WITH SPANISH KING

Cardinal Merry del Val May Settle Difficulty Between Spain and Vatican.

BY LA MARQUISE DE PONTENROY.
CARDINAL Merry del Val is on terms of such intimacy with King Alfonso, Dowager Queen Mary Christine, and all the reigning House of Spain, that notwithstanding the tenor of the public dispatches from Europe it is practically certain that a way will be found ere long of effecting an amicable settlement of the difficulties between Spain and the Vatican, which have existed ever since the Canalejas administration came into power.

Private news which reaches me from Rome and Madrid is decidedly to that effect.

Curiously enough, no mention has ever been made in the biographies of the Papal Secretary of State, who was at one time in charge of the education of Alfonso XIII., while his brother, now holding the rank of minister in the diplomatic service of Spain, is the young monarch's professor of English.

The cardinal and his brother, who have English blood in their veins from the maternal side, were brought up almost wholly in England.

There was much sympathy between the little King of Spain and his tutor, now Cardinal Merry del Val.

One who knows that he still retains a keen interest in athletic sports of every kind, especially that which requires him of his prowess on the English football field.

As a young man, he was by no means above taking part in the games of his royal charge, and the now grave Secretary of State doubtless recalls with a smile how on one little occasion he was asked to play with the little King who was seeking with laughter as he was about to be caught by the prelate, snatched up a garden hose and turned it full on his pursuer, reducing him from head to foot and making his spick-and-span ecclesiastical attire to a dripping state.

It is largely due to the cardinal that the indifference shown by the Spaniards to the King when a child was entirely dispelled.

Monarch Merry del Val alone had the courage and independence while in charge of Alfonso's education to warn the Queen Regent and other members of the royal household that the people did not seem to think much of so young a ruler, and that unless he became at once popular he would lose his throne. He urged that when the lad appeared in public he should have officers, not priests or women, at his side, excepting only his mother.

His advice, and as soon as possible, although at the cost of a terrible pang, excluded even herself from the boy's daily outings, and sent him out driving with military members of her household instead of accompanying him as she was wont to do.

Merry del Val also induced the Queen to allow Alfonso to show himself in public on all possible occasions, not only driving, but riding and also on foot, the result of which was that when the lad appeared in public he should have officers, not priests or women, at his side, excepting only his mother.

His advice, and as soon as possible, although at the cost of a terrible pang, excluded even herself from the boy's daily outings, and sent him out driving with military members of her household instead of accompanying him as she was wont to do.

The first time he was heard to laugh in the streets of Madrid, there was a little gasp. People could hardly believe that the boy was then a cheer was raised, loud and long.

DATE OF MEETING CHANGED TO APRIL

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Charlottesville, Va., June 27.—The school superintendents of the State, in annual conference at the University of Virginia, decided to hold the next session of the State Teachers' Association in April, instead of November. The change in date was made mainly due to the fact that the meeting of the Southern educational conference will be held in Richmond at that time.

Mr. Binford, of the School Improvement League, urged the superintendents to co-operate with the league in the holding of patrons' day in all the schools, and to encourage every effort toward school improvement.

He outlined a very helpful plan to encourage effort on the part of the teachers in this direction.

Professor W. H. Hez, of the University of Virginia, told of the new interest in school hygiene and its importance. Professor Hez has made this a subject of special study and original research and offered to co-operate with the superintendents in the effort to spread a very helpful division officials to visit them during the coming session and conduct discussions. He also explained the nature and purpose of the University Extension Lecture Bureau, of which he is manager.

The second week of the summer school began to-day with renewed interest and enthusiasm. The registration to date is 1,046. This is a very satisfactory number, and will be largely increased during the next few weeks, a considerable addition always arriving for the last four weeks of the session.
